TAINI
JAMISON TROPHY

THE TROPHY

The Taini Jamison Trophy is an international netball series hosted in New Zealand by Netball New Zealand. The trophy is contested by the Silver Ferns and at least one touring national team each year [except Australia].

The trophy is named in honour of Taini Jamison, who is one of the most successful Silver Ferns coaches in history with a 90 per cent winning record. As coach of New Zealand from 1967-1971, Jamison was the first woman to coach a New Zealand team to victory in a Netball World Cup, specifically in 1967.
